MATERIAL CHOICES

NATURAL STONE

Marbles, Granites, slate
Limestone, Quartzite
Volcanic stone.
Irregularity of the surfaces distinguish them from industrial manufactured
alternatives

COMPOSITE

Composite stones
including Silestone, Dekton are 90% natural
quartz, resins are added
and are typically more uniform

CERAMIC

Ceramic is a homogenous hard material with a natural or marble look.
The surface is fired and water resistant. Easy to care for

UNIQUELY CHERWELL

Bread cutting board Solidly made and functionally designed
The bread cutting board is craftsman-made with traditional finger joints. It has a practical side too: The crumbs simply fall through the grille into the slide-in catching tray underneath. This can be pulled out and easily cleaned as needed.

UNIQUELY CHERWELL

Chopping and cutting boards
Made from a natural product Wood remains the first choice in the kitchen, especially when preparing food with knives.
The wooden board develops an individual patina with daily use. At the same time, ingredients within the maple wood have an anti-bacterial effect.
